President's Report

Tonight we welcome our great friends and traditional rivals, Marconi Fairfield to Leichhardt Oval.

Fans of both teams have been looking forward to this game as both teams strive to finish the season on top of the table.

Although Olympic have experienced a slight slump in form of late, the win against Sydney United was tremendous and all of us on the Board congratulate David Ratcliffe, Steve Darby and the team for showing us what they are made of. It was also great to see so many fans cheering their team on both during and after the game.

I hope all fans enjoy tonight's spectacle and that Olympic fans will all come to our last home game on 28 April when we tackle the Brisbane Strikers. Once again, Happy Easter to all our sponsors, Soccer Australia, the media, the Greek Press and all Olympic fans.

Coach's Report

This evening we welcome the league leaders Marconi to Leichhardt Oval. Marconi have a wealth of talent and bring a star studded side including Matthew Bingley, Dominic Longo, Francis Awaritefe and Andy Harper. So it is going to be a very difficult game and hopefully an entertaining one.

Last week was a huge boost for us to try to get ourselves back into the top two spots in the league. it was a great team effort with everyone contributing to our victory. After the very difficult game at South Melbourne where we had to play with 10 men for 80 minutes, the players really dug deep and came up with a winning performance against Sydney United.

I though Derek Poimer, Milan Blagojevic and Nick Meredith were our outstanding players in the game. It was good to see Kimon Taliadoros on the score sheet again his second in our last two games, with hopefully more to come. I would like to thank our supporters for the great welcome they gave Robbie Ironside on his return to the team. Robbie has worked hard to overcome his injuries and will be a huge boost to us in the next few weeks.

It is still a very close race for the top six places, with seven teams fighting for those places with three games remaining. Injuries and suspension are going to play a big part in the success of teams. So it is pleasing that we are getting close to a full squad to select from. Peter Tsekenis is back in training and very keen to get back on the field.

The support you gave us last week really lifted the players for which we are grateful, and hopefully in this very crucial game for the Club you will all give the players a huge lift.

Again the Youth team had a great 4-0 win against Sydney United. they are continuing to make very good progress and we hope to see them make the play-offs.

Scott Baillie relishes the opportunity to play with UTS Olympic in Australia's premier competition after spending most of his football career in the New South Wales Super League. In that League Scott received the Player's Player of the Year Award in 1995 and was selected in the New South Wales Super League Select Squad this year.

Despite his impressive record in the Super League Scott says there is a big step up to the Ericsson Cup League – the game is faster, the players more knowledgeable, the pressure is greater and the crowds are more vocal. The game last week against Sydney United had all those characteristics. Scott and the rest of the team greatly appreciated the support Olympic fans gave them during and after the game.

All fans at Olympic hope that this likeable red-headed player can continue to stop opposing teams' strikers from scoring goals and that he stays in "the big league" for a long time to come.

"Straight Shooting"

with ANDY PASCHALIDIS (Alias Uncle Stavros)

The Major Soccer League in the United States began over the Easter weekend with the San Jose Clash defeated Washington DC United 1-0 in San Jose.

What is so important about that? Firstly, the United States is the last and one of the most important countries where the world game is struggling for credibility and access.

Throughout the schooling system in the United States, soccer is one of the most popular sports in terms of participation, but has failed at the highest level.

The game, televised nationally on sports network ESPN, was the first for the newly-formed 10-team league. Officials had pledged to the world soccer body FIFA that there would be a professional league in operation by 1994 as part of the bid that brought that year's World Cup to the United States.

I'm sure you all remember how successful the World Cup was. The facilities, promotion and organisation was exceptional.

The League is two years late, but officials are optimistic, it will be more successful than the North American Soccer League which folded in 1984. So they should be because the opening game attracted a crowd of 31,683.

"The World Cup left a great legacy for the sport," US Federation boss, Alan Rothenberg said: "Foundation of the league is a crucial part of that legacy."

"In the not too distant future, I believe soccer will be the fifth major sport in the country behind gridiron, baseball, basketball and ice hockey."

I believe if the MLS has started soon after the World Cup, when soccer was at its zenith in the American public eye, it probably would have made a stronger impact.

Now the major league baseball intends to play a full season while the National Basketball Association and National Hockey League playoffs are about to start. How much room is there for soccer, particularly on a level well below what US fans saw in 1992??

Some of the teams are already struggling to attract attention. Dallas Burn and Tampa Bay Mutiny have sold just over 2,000 season tickets while the Columbus Crew and Metro Stars have surpassed 10,000 in season ticket sales.

During the World Cup, the Americans took advantage of the many ethnic groups spread throughout the country. In fact, last year when El Salvador played the United States in California the crowd was over 60,000.

There is the difference between our league and what the Americans are trying to do. US officials are embracing the ethnic communities knowing only too well without the support of the Italians, Irish, Mexicans etc, etc, crowds will be down.

San Jose, the place where the first game was played, is full of Hispanics so it didn't come as a surprise the game was sold out. It would be impossible for US officials to try and "Americanise" the game.

Not surprisingly, league officials had asked FIFA to consider using a bigger goal to stimulate scoring. The suggestion was heavily criticised with even Steve Sampson, the US National coach, voicing disapproval.

The idea was shot down by FIFA last month, but the MLS will feature shootouts to decide tied games borrowing the method used in the NASL: A shooter attacks a goalkeeper on a breakaway from 35 metres and must score in five seconds.

That should please Eric Wynalda, one of the best players from the US National team. He has returned home after four years in Germany and scored the winning goal in the first game.

Other big names in the new league are Mexican goalie, Jorge Campos, Colombian international, Carlos Valderrama, ex-Italian international, Roberto Donadoni while Alexie Lalas, Tab Ramos and John Harkes have returned home.

"It was great to play in Italy, in one of the best leagues in the world, and earn the big money," says Lalas, who played for Padova for one and a half seasons.

"I also wanted to do something for soccer back home. I didn't want to have the feeling later that I sat back and had done nothing."

Let's hope the Americans get it right this time around.

Before I go, congratulations to Kimon Taliadoros for his dramatic winner against Sydney United last Monday. It's time for business UTS Olympic!!!!

Supporters help the Club

In a recent edition of Blues News we reported on the assistance given to the Club by the Ladies Committee.

The Club also has a supporters committee who support the team by volunteering assistance at home games, vocally supporting the team on and off the field, providing an extensive range of supporters merchandise in team colours and arranging away trips in order to support the team in difficult away games.

The Supporters Committee has raised $25,000 from their work this season and the daughter of one of the committee members, Adrianna Koutsourais has raised $43,000 from her contribution to the Miss Sydney Olympic Ball.

If you would like to join the Supporters Committee call its President Paul Antoniou on 667 2537 or the Club on 558 5355.

Whistle Stop

by PHIL HAFEY

The interpretation of the 'scissors kick' and 'high feet' has changed under the rewritten Law 12. In the past such actions were penalised by an indirect free kick if the referee was of the opinion that the player's action created a danger for others even if contact was accidentally made with an opponent.

Regular readers will remember an article earlier in the season outlining the law changes for this season. The main change has been the removal of the requirement for the referee to judge the player's intention, rather the outcome of the player's actions is the main consideration.

Under the new definition of 'careless or reckless' the 'scissors kick' and 'high feet' are penalised by a direct free kick (or penalty kick if the offence takes place inside the penalty area) where contact is made with an opponent regardless of whether the player's action is intentional. If no contact is made, but the player's actions create a danger for the opponent, then an indirect free kick is awarded.

The change in interpretation only effects how the game is restarted. The 'scissors kick' and 'high feet' will still be judged in the same way as in the past. The actions are perfectly legal unless they constitute a danger to an opponent.

In the case of 'high feet', referees often have to decide which player created the danger, the player who raises the foot or the one who lowers the head. As a general rule below the waist the foot has right of way (to use a traffic term) and above the chest the head has right of way. This leaves an area in between which must be judged by the referee depending on the individual circumstances.

It must be remembered that in the examples outlined above the danger has been created in a genuine attempt to play the ball and usually occurs when the player does not know that the opponent is nearby. If a player intentionally places an opponent in danger through his actions then the referee must act strongly as there is no place in our game for players who play without thought for the safety of their opponents.

QUESTIONS:

1. The goalkeeper dives at the feet of a forward and stops the ball with his hands whilst the ball is on the penalty area (18yd) line. What action should the referee take?
2. When is the ball in play at the taking of a free kick: a) in the defending penalty area and b) elsewhere on the field.
3. A defender clears the ball and it comes to rest against the corner flag. What action should the referee take?

ANSWERS:

1. Allow play to continue, the line is part of the penalty area.
2. a) When the ball leaves the penalty area
b) When the ball has travelled its circumference (68-71cms, 27-28 inches)
3. Allow play to continue.

Olympic vs Marconi

by LEX MARINOS, UTS Olympic Director

One of the great by-products of sport is intense, but friendly rivalry. Traditional "enemies" who love nothing better than bating one another, based on deep respect for one another. In cricket it's Australia vs England, while AFL has Carlton & Collingwood, Rugby league has State of Origin, and in Rugby Union it's Wallabies vs All Blacks. Always they are all special contests. So it is in our game when Olympic and Marconi meet. Two great clubs who always manage to find something extra when they come together.

In the 18 seasons of national competition the two clubs have met on 45 occasions with Olympic winning 17 times, Marconi 12 and 16 times the honours have been shared. Remarkably, only one goal separates the two teams, Olympic scoring 60 and Marconi 61. At home Olympic have won 7, drawn 10 and lost 3; while away Olympic still hold an edge winning 7 with 5 draws and 6 losses. Seven finals games have resulted in 3 wins a piece with one draw.

Needless to say, the two clubs have produced some epic encounters including a pair of 8-goal games: 1989 when Olympic won 5-3, and two seasons ago when Marconi triumphed 7-1 (ouch!). This is of course Olympic's worst defeat, usually finds its way into conversations when rival supporters meet.

However, the two games that stand out are the consecutive grand finals of 1989 and 1989/90. The first took place on August 13 and resulted in a dramatic courageous win for the more experienced Marconi. Down to 10 men after Matteo Colucci had been dismissed towards the end of the first half, the game seemed destined for extra time when the season's leading goal scorer, Zlatko Nasteovski slotted home the winner. The crowd was 23,387.

The competition then moved to summer, and seven months late (May 20, 1990) the two teams met again. Marconi was tipped to win its third successive championship emulating the feat of Sydney City in the early 1980s. Olympic had won its way through four finals games to again try and clinch its first championship and this time the underdogs were successful. In front of a record crowd of 26,352 Alistair Edwards and Robbie Ironside were the scorers with Marconi goalless.

It is worth recording the sides in those two games and reflecting upon the magnificent contribution so many of these players have made to Australia soccer.

This season the Clubs have played twice – once at Leichhardt on 26 November when nearly 12,000 spectators witnessed a 0-0 draw and then on 17 February at Marconi Stadium where Olympic was victorious 3-1.

Tonight both teams are playing for the top two spots on the table to secure a double-chance in the finals series in May. Let's hope we see both teams in the Grand Final on May 26.

Francis Awaritefe (left) from Marconi and Kimon Taliadoros (right) from UTS Olympic have been scoring for their clubs in recent games. Perhaps one of them will hold the key in tonight's exciting match.
